

I have been a subscriber of satellite radio for several months. This, of course, means that I care enough about what I listen to to pay for the privilege of hearing what I want to, when I want to hear it. I am not subjected to repetitive songs, commercials, boring announcers, etc. I feel that the NAB should not control what I hear.

As far as instant traffic and weather are concerned, it's far better to be able to tune to a "channel" that broadcasts only traffic and weather instead of having to listen to a commercial station with all of its aggravations in the hope that they will be able to slip in useful information when you need/want it.

Therefore, I urge you to reject the NAB's petition 04-160.
